

Guest Writing Guidelines

- Posts should be written from a Christian perspective, offering encouragement to all ages, with a “me too” perspective. Please share your story to encourage another in their journey of faith and the beauty of bravery straight from the heart of God. Submit only original pieces that haven't appeared elsewhere, including your personal blog.
- Posts should be between 600-800 words with proper spelling and grammar. Please include quotes and sticky phrases (Max. 140 characters) to promote post on Twitter. If including scripture, please limit to (1) and include translation.
- Email your post in a Word document, including your name and post title. Include a 50-75-word bio along with a photo of yourself and desired social media links.
- Do post an attention grabber (only) on your blog with links to my blog so readers can read your entire post. Readers are going to want to connect with you, so on the day your post is published please plan to have a presence to share comments and engage with readers.
- There is no need to provide a graphic, as I will include optimized social media graphics.
- I reserve the right to edit your post and add internal links.
- I will email you the permalink to share across your social media sites. I will also share and promote on my social media sites.

Your story matters...Thank you for taking the time to share!
